Did you know the Harper government is lobbying against important climate policy in the EU? The EU Fuel Quality Directive (FQD) will reduce emissions from transport fuels and encourage fuel suppliers to reduce emissions and promote cleaner fuels over dirty fuels.

I'm Canadian and I support
the EU FQD!

The Harper government is opposed because under the EU FQD the tar sands are labelled as a high carbon fuel. Government officials have called this “discriminatory,” even though it applies to all crude produced from bitumen and other high carbon fuels are also included in the policy. It has also been called unscientific even though the value assigned to the tar sands is based on a peer-reviewed scientific study by a Stanford University professor.

TAKE ACTION: Send your photo in support of the EU FQD

Have your photo taken with a message to European decision makers and public. In the lead up to an important meeting on the FQD Dec. 2, the Council of Canadians will creatively deliver these photos.

Sample messages:

“I’m Canadian and I support the EU FQD”

“Pass the EU FQD! The Harper government doesn’t speak for me”

“I’m sorry... Canada’s foreign policy should not interfere with EU climate action”
